Recruit Group was founded in 1960 as a small advertising agency specializing in university newspapers. Two years later, we published our “Invitation to Companies,” a collection of job listings for university students, through which we established our business model referred to as the “Ribbon Model.” Since then, we have widened our range of HR business, while also expanding into the life events field, including education, housing, automobiles, bridal, and the lifestyle field including travel, dining, and beauty. Recently, we have introduced software as a service (SaaS) business tools to support operations within small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), such as retailers and restaurants.

In the 2000s, Recruit Group entered the global market with a bridal business in China. Although this ended as a withdrawal, the failure helped us to shape our mergers and acquisitions (M&A) strategy, and we later succeeded in expanding in the US, Europe, Australia and beyond. The acquisitions of Indeed in 2012 and Glassdoor in 2018 have led to the successful establishment of our HR Technology business, spearheading the growth of the Group as a whole and bringing the number of countries we serve to over 60.

The goals of Recruit Group

We are living amid rapid and drastic change. In the last three decades, we have seen computer processing speeds increase to the point that we now hold tremendously powerful smart devices in our pockets, paving the way for an ever-more connected world and connected lifestyles.

Changes in the way that information and experiences are shared has transformed lifestyles, fundamentally altered economies, and had a colossal impact on society and the environment worldwide. Moreover, the frameworks and rules supporting this change have become burdensome and exceedingly complex.

While many people take such progress for granted and enjoy the advantages of more freedom of choice when making life decisions, not everyone is benefitting from the shift. Rather, there is an increase in disparity between those who can leverage technology to process complex information and those who cannot. This gap also appears to have widened between countries, and even between different groups of people within countries.

Because of this, we believe that it is important that societies encourage a “Follow Your Heart” mindset, where individuals can determine their own direction and create the lives that they wish to lead. Since our foundation, we have advocated for a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest, and we truly believe that by offering increased opportunities to everyone we can contribute to realizing such a world.

*1 Acronym of Sustainable Development Goals, which were adopted by the United Nations summit meeting in September 2015 and are goals for the 193 member countries to achieve in the 15 years from 2016 to 2030.
We aim to become a global leader in the HR Matching market by promoting innovation with technology.

Reflecting on FY2018, looking toward the future

As a Group, we have carefully incorporated the social role we believe we should play into our management philosophy. Since our founding in 1960, we have been committed to eliminating dissatisfaction, inconvenience, and unease for society and customers, and creating value by solving these issues. We have operated our businesses in Japan and globally, connecting individual users and enterprise clients, including SMES and offering each the best matching experience. For FY2018, our consolidated revenue was 2,310.7 billion yen (up 6.3% YoY) and consolidated EBITDA was 293.2 billion yen (up 13.5% YoY), both of which reached record highs.

We aim to continue providing the best matching solutions available. In particular, in our newly defined HR Matching market, there remains inefficiency, inconvenience, and mismatching in recruiting and hiring processes globally. Through innovative uses of cutting-edge technologies, we can significantly reduce the amount of time and effort currently invested by individual job seekers and companies in finding a good match.

The HR Matching market consists of the job advertising and talent sourcing tools market, the placement and search market, and the temporary staffing market. We believe that the total addressable market for our HR Matching business in 2018 was at least 150 billion US dollars worldwide (see Fig. 1). The scale of our existing HR Matching business is approximately 870 billion yen*, compared to a potential HR Matching market of at least 150 billion US dollars* (approximately 16 trillion yen). Therefore, we have significant opportunity to continue to expand our HR Matching business globally.

Within the HR Matching market, the online job advertising and talent sourcing tools market, which is the primary area for our HR Technology business, is estimated to be approximately 15 billion US dollars*. The online job advertising business in HR Solutions within our Media & Solutions business also operates in this market.

The job placement and search market is estimated to be worth approximately 54 billion US dollars* globally. Our placement services in the Media & Solutions business, and Indeed Hire, which was launched in 2016 in our HR Technology business, operate in this market. We will seek to expand our presence in this market in the mid- to long-term.

In addition, we believe that the size of the temporary staffing market is estimated to be even larger than the job placement and search market, with approximately 80 billion US dollars* globally on a gross profit basis, which excludes salaries of agency workers recorded as a cost of sales.

We aim to become a global leader in the HR Matching market by promoting innovation through the use of technology.

Compliance and diversity for sustainable corporate value improvement

We have strengthened our compliance system on a Group-wide scale, understanding how critical compliance is in helping us create sustainable, long-term value for society and industry. In addition to meeting existing laws and regulations in each country and industry, we are striving to ensure compliance with internal guidelines, including the Recruit Group Code of Ethics. In this rapidly changing social environment, it is imperative that we remain a reliable partner for our various stakeholders. Accordingly, we act sincerely based on high ethical values and implement measures such as continuous education, improvement and monitoring.

* The $150 billion+ total addressable market is the total of the Job Advertising & Talent Sourcing Tools Market, the Placement & Search Market and the Temporary Staffing Market shown on this page. Recruit Holdings has estimated the size of its addressable markets based on a combination of internal and external data, estimates, market research and assumptions, which are inherently subject to a number of uncertainties. Accordingly, the estimated size of Recruit Holdings’ addressable markets may differ materially from the actual size of such markets, and you should not place undue reliance on this information.
* Compliant of revenue of our HR Technology segment, revenue of the HR Solutions in our Media & Solutions segment and gross profit calculated as revenue minus salary for agency workers, etc. of our Staffing segment.
* Estimated market size in 2018 is based on internal estimates, assumptions and market research by Recruit Holdings. The online job advertising and talent sourcing tools market is defined to include (i) revenue of Indeed and competing job advertising boards in Recruit Holdings’ target operating markets and (ii) revenue of the talent solutions business of LinkedIn in Recruit Holdings’ target operating markets.
* The online job advertising and talent sourcing market is defined to include newspaper, magazines, and other print channels only and excludes television, cinema, radio, and other non-print channels, and is derived by applying the proportion of online to offline spending in the overall advertising market to Recruit Holdings’ estimated size of the online job advertising and talent sourcing tools market.
* Gross profit for the temporary staffing market is defined to be calculated as revenue minus salary for agency workers, etc. of our Staffing segment.
* Estimated market size in 2018 of $150 billion+ is estimated by multiplying the market size by revenue in 2018 of $458 billion as estimated by SIA, Global Staffing Industry Market Estimates and Forecast, May 2019 Update, by (i) 33.3%, which was the weighted average gross profit margin of the top three public staffing companies in terms of revenue in 2018.
Recruit Holdings continues to increase corporate value in a sustainable manner by promoting innovation in the HR Matching market and by transforming Marketing Solutions operations in our Media & Solutions business. The SDGs emphasize the importance of partnerships, and we truly believe that in order to realize a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest, everyone must work together.

While paying careful attention to the voices of all of our stakeholders, including our individual users, enterprise clients, employees, agency workers, business partners, investors and shareholders, and civil society, we are working hard to achieve our mission—Opportunities for Life. Faster, simpler and closer to you.

We are proactively promoting sustainability, incorporating diversity and inclusion. We believe that creating a work environment where employees can leverage their diverse viewpoints and skills is indispensable for developing a competitive advantage. In addition to supporting career advancement for women and minorities, including racial and ethnic groups, the LGBTQ community, or those facing time constraints (resulting from duties such as childcare or nursing care), we have embedded a culture of acceptance for all people and their unique strengths and talents.

We recognize that establishing diversity within the Board of Directors is essential for improving the quality of discussions in Board of Directors Meetings and for promoting the innovation needed for long-term sustainable growth. Our policy in selecting and nominating Board Director candidates is to choose from a pool of candidates, assured to be diverse and qualified to fulfill the duties and responsibilities of the position, based on their skills, leadership, background, judgment, personality, insight, and experience.

The Board of Directors believes that there is a strong need to increase the diversity of its membership, in particular in terms of gender. For this reason, we have committed to selecting at least one female Director candidate in the proposal for Director appointment at the Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders to be held in June 2021.

Value Creation Process

There are five steps in the process of realizing our management philosophy: Input, Leverage, Output, Outcome, and Impact. The Input is provided by six categories of capital, which are leveraged through our activities to create value and transform the capital into output—not only in the form of earnings, but also in the form of positive contributions to society. The SDGs Domino Effect shown in the chart symbolizes outcomes that contribute to goals shared by the entire world. As these contributions accumulate, we produce a social impact, contributing to the creation of a world where all individuals can live life to the fullest. We are committed to continuing to strengthen this cycle.

SDGs & the Domino Effect

Supporting social change

Recruit Group places a special focus on six of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) adopted by the United Nations General Assembly. We believe that by focusing on the SDGs which align with our strengths, we can contribute to the sustainable realization of all the SDGs. This same concept can be found in our Ribbon Model, a two-sided marketplace business model that reduces asymmetries of information and broadens choices by providing optimal matchings for individual users and enterprise clients. Placing “SDG 10. Reduced inequalities” at our core, we believe that through this domino-like chain reaction we can make a greater impact on society.

By striving for “SDG 8. Decent work and economic growth,” everyone has greater access to education, which fosters “SDG 5. Gender equality.”

Inspire new ways of working

By working on “SDG 5. Gender equality,” everyone feels their efforts are worthwhile, which leads to “SDG 8. Decent work and economic growth.”

Celebrate diversity and inclusion

By pursuing “SDG 10. Reduced inequalities,” people from diverse backgrounds respect one another, which contributes to “SDG 5. Gender equality.”

Respect human rights

To create a brighter and more fulfilling world in which all individuals can live to the fullest, we respect the uniqueness of individuals and human rights as a natural basis for our corporate activities.

Conserve the environment

As a responsible corporate citizen, Recruit Group will endeavor to preserve the environment.

By striving for “SDG 4. Quality education,” everyone has greater access to education, which leads to “SDG 1. No poverty.”

Close the opportunity gap

By striving for “SDG 10. Reduced inequalities,” everyone has greater access to education, which fosters “SDG 4. Quality education.”

The Ribbon Model

Ever since our foundation, Recruit Group has sought to act as a meeting place that brings together individual users and enterprise clients, with a focus on services in the field of life-events and lifestyle, ranging from education to employment, and beauty to dining out. By providing a common platform through which users can find the service that best meets their needs, and business owners can connect with their ideal customers, we can facilitate the best possible matches for the mutual benefit of both parties. We refer to this two-sided marketplace business model as the ‘ribbon model,’ with the two sides connected with the tying of a ribbon.

Thanks to the Internet and the mass adoption of smartphones, we now have a wealth of information at our fingertips. This also brings with it the need for increasingly sophisticated solutions to facilitate the best matches. At Recruit Group, we are actively integrating new technologies to ensure that the Ribbon Model continues to meet the needs of a rapidly changing society through the creation of opportunities that enable every individual to shine.

Recruit Group created the Ribbon Model to provide anyone with access to information, in exercising the model, we will strive towards “SDG 10. Reduced inequalities” by reducing asymmetries of information in various businesses.

Thanks to the Internet and the mass adoption of smartphones, we now have a wealth of information at our fingertips. This also brings with it the need for increasingly sophisticated solutions to facilitate the best matches. At Recruit Group, we are actively integrating new technologies to ensure that the Ribbon Model continues to meet the needs of a rapidly changing society through the creation of opportunities that enable every individual to shine.

By addressing the imbalance between the volume of information provided by enterprises and the limited ability of users to find what they are looking for, we seek to provide increased opportunities for everyone, and through this help reduce inequality. This is why SDG Goal 10: Reduced inequalities is at the center of the SDGs Domino Effect.
Vision, Mission & Values

Recruit Group Management Philosophy

Basic Principle
We are focused on creating new value for our society to contribute to a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest.

Vision
Follow Your Heart
We envision a world where individuals and businesses can focus on what really matters. The more people are free to pursue their passions, the better our future becomes.

Mission
Opportunities for Life.
Faster, simpler and closer to you.
Since our foundation, we have connected individuals and businesses offering both a multitude of choices.
In this era of search, where information has become available anytime anywhere, we need to focus more on proposing the optimal choice. We seek to provide “Opportunities for Life” much faster, surprisingly simpler and closer than ever before.

Values
Wow the World
What we do isn’t a job. We enjoy exploring what is possible for our future. We question the status quo, fail well and overcome with resilience. We are a force for change.

Bet on Passion
We are a team of people fueled by curiosity. We respect and capitalize on each other’s differences. We know that one person’s crazy idea, when backed by data and research, can become the best bet.

Prioritize Social Value
We, as global citizens, strive to contribute to a sustainable society through all of our corporate activities. Each one of us is committed to seeking out the needs of society and taking action for a better future.

Reinforcing our management philosophy
In 2018, we redefined our Vision, Mission, and Values, which together form our management philosophy. The overarching basic principle remains the ideal that we have held since the founding of our company, namely “creating a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest.” We call this image of the world that we are aiming for our “Vision,” and the role that we play within that our “Mission.” To realize our Vision and Mission, we have three set “Values” that serve to guide us in our actions: “Wow the World,” “Bet on Passion,” and “Prioritize Social Value.”

Underlying this philosophy are convictions that we have cultivated since our founding, based on our insights and understanding of human psychology and behavior. One of these is that people reveal their greatest strengths when they are free to pursue their internal motivations— their ambitions, dreams, desires, and passions. Empowered to follow these motivations, people will blossom and come to realize their full potential. This fundamental belief permeates every part of Recruit Group, and as shown in our “Value Creation Process” (see p23-24), when put into practice with our stakeholders creates a virtuous cycle leading to a positive sustainable impact.

In recent years, the rapid changes in customer needs and the speed of innovation developed to respond to these needs, have been remarkable. As the Group that operates on a global scale, we must continuously evolve our business to meet the changing expectations of our customers and society—while also maintaining a consistent management philosophy and corporate culture in the core. Our Vision, Mission and Values are our identity, which we embody in our daily actions, that provides us with a solid foundation (see p23/24).
Recurrent Group Management Philosophy

Embodying our management philosophy and values

“Bet on Passion” is one of the core Values of Recruit Group, and is something that we have done since our founding—valuing the passion of those who are enthusiastic and committed about what they do has led to many new opportunities. For example, in the mid-1990s, employees in their twenties, aware of just how disruptive the Internet was set to become, pushed Recruit Group to become an early adopter of digitalization. Naturally, they had to fight against entrenched views that favored print, but ultimately of digitalization. Naturally, they had to fight against entrenched views that favored print, but ultimately favored digitalization. They had to fight against entrenched views that favored print, but ultimately favored digitalization.

In order to contribute to a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest, we have to turn our own organization into a place where employees can live life to the fullest. To make that happen, we will continue to reflect our learning from global best practices and internal feedback in our organization structure, procedures, training programs, IT systems and office environments.

We believe that we can make a difference in the world by constantly challenging ourselves to be a values-driven organization that brings our management philosophy to life.

Create your own opportunities and let the opportunities change you

As a Harvard Business School professor, I had been working for seven years to identify best practices in workforce transitions—layoffs and restructuring—in companies across the globe. I became curious about how companies in Japan managed workforce change, faced with a historical white collar “salaryman” work culture of long hours, a strong sense of loyalty to the company, and lifetime employment. The result of our research is a Harvard Business School case, “Globalizing Japan’s Dream Machine: Recruit Holdings Co., Ltd.” which was first taught to Harvard MBAs in October 2018. This case study focuses on how Recruit Group’s corporate culture of individual employee empowerment has enabled the company to reinvent itself as a global organization ready for the digital era, something it achieved despite the 1988 bribery scandal and a period under massive debt. The research also provided a wealth of information that was used in a Harvard Business Review article, and a book being written about how companies earn, lose, and regain trust.

What are the challenges ahead?

Recurrent Group is aiming to become a global leader in the HR Matching market, a goal that is superior to financial targets, which a company could achieve in ways that don’t result in value creation for customers. For sustainable growth, Recurrent Group will need to stay focused on improving the quality of its services and not just the number of people it serves. The way ahead has at least two ethical minefields. The first is making sure that the algorithms Recruit Group creates don’t replicate patterns of discrimination, which is a known liability of AI. This could easily happen in job searches, with women and underrepresented minorities not being referred to jobs that are unusual for people like them.

The second is to continue to focus on the impact they create. Internet giants are facing backlash because they don’t take accountability for the harm they create in doing business or the kinds of businesses they engage in. As Recruit grows overseas, it will need to ensure that all of its businesses are committed to holding themselves accountable for the impact they have—as Recruit Group did after the scandal. Finally, with roughly half of revenue now coming from outside Japan, there is an even bigger and more diverse organization to manage and inspire, and this ultimately will be one of the key challenges.

The key to our strength is our people

Recruit Group’s diversity and inclusion

As a Group that aims to contribute to a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest, I believe our source of strength is our people. Our diverse employees are fully committed to providing solutions to the wide range of challenges faced by customers and society at large. When each employee uses their potential to its full extent, respect and embrace each other’s differences, we can capitalize upon our diversity, deepen our collaboration, and bring about unexpected innovations.

Therefore, creating an environment that allows people’s full potential to blossom forms an important part of our competitive strategy, making Diversity and Inclusion (D&I) a crucial agenda. To this extent, we carry out various initiatives both in Japan and overseas. There have been improvements, especially regarding gender diversity, but we understand the need for further enhancements, and continue to reinforce our initiatives.

The commitment of the Board of Directors

At Recruit Group, the management team is committed to promoting D&I both among employees and within the Board of Directors. For instance in Japan, we enhance the development and successes of our female employees by monitoring the number of women appointed to managerial positions and discussing the results in the Business Strategy Meetings. In addition to this, our top management participate in events such as Family Day, where we deepen our understanding of D&I.

We are also committed to promote gender diversity in the Board of Directors. We are aware that its current composition is lacking in diversity from a gender perspective, and have worked to improve the balance in composition. In response to this, the Board of Directors has created a policy of including at least one female candidate in the proposal for the appointment of Board Directors at the General Meeting of Shareholders by June 2021.

The status of gender diversity globally

We believe it is ideal that the ratio of male to female managers is equal to the ratio of male to female employees. Currently, the ratio of male to female employees across all SBUs globally is even. However, the ratio of males in managerial positions is higher than that of females, and rectifying this is a priority for the Group going forward. Further to this, we are also promoting gender diversity on the Board of Directors, as stated on page 31.

D&I initiatives overseas

Promoting and celebrating gender diversity

To promote gender diversity, our employees organize events such as lunch meetings, panel discussions, and seminars. At “Women at Indeed” and “Women in Glassdoor” many male employees also participate, and together have created a lively and stimulating work environment where there is mutual respect for diversity.

Employment support for those with disabilities

At Start People France, over 1,100 people with disabilities were hired as agency staff in 2018. To promote employment of people with disabilities, they have implemented hiring campaigns for their clients along with offering training sessions, suggesting office layout improvements, and creating activities to encourage positive changes in worker mentality.
The Group established a specialized organization in 2006 to promote D&I. As over 40% of our Group employees in Japan are female, we have prioritized supporting the work-life balance and success of our employees as the first step toward creating an environment where everyone can succeed.

The current D&I themes we have prioritized in Japan are: raising awareness in female employees; training for managerial positions; revamping working-styles to better support a work-life balance.

These themes were chosen with the purpose of supporting a balance between home life and work life, regardless of gender. We hope to create an environment where everyone, regardless of gender or demands on their time (such as caring for family or raising children), can succeed. As a result, we have brought about the following changes.

1. An increase in the work-life awareness of female employees
   - Our 2018 Diversity Survey, which had over 12,000 employee responses, demonstrated that 49.8% of female employees feel they are able to balance work and home life at our company. This is an improvement from 31.1% in 2012.

2. An increase in working mothers
   - As a result of increasing our support for work-life balance, the number of working mothers has increased to 1,322 (23.2% of female employees, as of April 2019).

3. An increase in female managers taking maternity/childcare leave
   - As a result of the progress we have made in supporting a work-life balance, the number of female managers taking maternity/childcare leave has increased every year and is now 3.4 times what it was in 2013.

Strengthening enterprise value with strategic acquisitions and technology

Three-year historical performance summary FY2016 - FY2018

FY2018 was the final year of the mid-term management policy that was established when we announced the financial results for FY2015. During the three-year period from FY2016 to FY2018, our consolidated revenue, consolidated EBITDA, and adjusted EPS each delivered favorable growth. Consolidated EBITDA, a management KPI that we put great value on during the period, has grown by 45%, from 202.2 billion yen in FY2015 to 293.2 billion yen. Also, the result of the Adjusted EBITDA, which we put great value on during the period, has grown by 45%, from 202.2 billion yen in FY2015 to 293.2 billion yen. Adjusted EPS is targeted to grow high single digits.

The success of our overseas business was primarily due to the high growth of Indeed over the past three years. Other factors such as the strategic acquisitions of Glassdoor in the HR Technology SBU and USG People (now Recruit Global Staffing) in the Staffing SBU, also contributed to the growth of our overseas business. As a result, the contribution from overseas business to our consolidated revenue increased from 36% in FY2015 to 46% in FY2018.

To continue the sustainable growth of our businesses in Japan, we have expanded both our individual user and enterprise client base mainly in the Media & Solutions SBU. We also focused on creating new growth areas such as operational and management support services through SaaS solutions for SMEs, and the online education service “Study Sapuri.”

In FY2019, consolidated revenue and adjusted EBITDA are expected to increase in all three of our SBUs: HR Technology, Media & Solutions, and Staffing. Adjusted EBITDA is expected to grow this fiscal year compared to the prior fiscal year, and is forecasted to be in a range of 310 billion to 330 billion yen. Adjusted EPS is targeted to grow high single digits.

Financial policies and shareholder returns

ROE was 19.3% for FY2018, which exceeded the target of 15%. We will continue to maintain ROE of approximately 15%. Recruit Group views dividends as an important tool to deliver returns to our shareholders. We aim to pay out consistent and stable dividends twice a year, with a target payout ratio of approximately 30%.

For FY2018, the annual dividend per share was 28 yen, which was comprised of the interim dividend of 13.5 yen, and the year-end dividend of 14.5 yen. For FY2019, we plan to pay an annual dividend of 30 yen per share, up 2 yen from the previous fiscal year, with 15 yen for each of the interim and year-end dividends.

Also, we expect to utilize capital for strategic acquisitions that will help us realize our ambitious goals. We will work to retain sufficient capital that will enable us to move flexibly and quickly for strategic M&A, when necessary. Additionally, we consider external financing through borrowings for acquisitions as needed, provided we ensure our financial soundness is maintained. Based on the capital market environment and financial outlook, we may consider implementing a share repurchase program, as necessary, after meeting the above-mentioned funding needs.

Keiichi Sagawa
CFO, Senior Managing Corporate Executive Officer and Board Director

In order to reflect the rapidly changing technology business environment and the growth of the HR Technology SBU, we changed our guidance practices for FY2019. We are no longer providing specific consolidated financial forecasts for revenue, EBITDA, operating income, profit attributable to owners of the parent, adjusted profit, and adjusted EPS.

* Recruit Holdings adopted IFRS from the beginning of the FY2017. Figures for FY2016 were calculated assuming IFRS were applied on pro forma basis. Figures for FY2017 are based on Japanese GAAP.
* Recruit Holdings changed the structure of its reportable segments from FY2015 (full-year) to a new reportable segment structure from FY2017.
* Figures are based on the financial results for the periods under the current structure are not available.

FY2018 revenue growth

- HR Technology: Segment revenue increased 49.6% YoY, supported by a favorable economic environment and tight labor market, resulting in increased sponsored job advertising revenue from new and existing clients at Indeed. Revenue from Glassdoor, which was acquired in June 2018, also contributed to revenue growth.
- Revenue growth in US dollar terms was 54.0% YoY, assuming IFRS 15, which we adopted in the beginning of FY2018, had been applied in FY2017 on a pro forma basis.
- Segment EBITDA increased 55.0% YoY. To support future revenue growth, we continued to invest in sales and marketing activities to acquire new individual users and enterprise clients, and in product enhancements to increase user and client engagement.

- Media & Solutions: Segment revenue increased 6.1% YoY, primarily driven by increased revenue in the Beauty business, where an increase in the number of beauty salon clients lead to growth in online beauty salon reservations, and Housing and Real Estate business in Marketing Solutions. HR Solutions also contributed to revenue growth, primarily due to increased revenue in the Recruiting in Japan business, which focused on enhancing its brand value, strengthening user attractiveness, and reinforcing its sales structure in an extremely tight Japanese labor market.
- Segment EBITDA increased 10.4% YoY. Both HR Solutions and particularly Marketing Solutions recorded higher EBITDA.

- Staffing: Segment revenue for FY2018 decreased 0.7% YoY resulting from a decline in revenue in Overseas operations primarily due to an uncertain outlook for the European economy, the negative impact of foreign exchange rate movements, and the adoption of IFRS 15, while revenue in Japan operations increased reflecting a tight labor market.
- Segment EBITDA increased 14.1% YoY as a result of improvement in operational productivity. In addition, in Japan operations, placement fee revenue increased 0Y0 as a result of law revisions effective October 1, 2018 which encouraged enterprise clients to hire agency workers directly and contributed to higher EBITDA.

EBITDA = operating income + depreciation and amortization ± other operating income/expenses.

The sum of Marketing Solutions and HR Solutions does not correspond with segment revenue and EBITDA due to Eliminations and Adjustments, such as intra-group transactions.

The US dollar-based revenue reporting represents the financial results of operating companies in the segment on a US dollar basis, which differ from the consolidated financial results of Recruit Holdings.

Recruit Holdings adopted IFRS 15 in the beginning of FY2018, and changed its accounting policy, and revenues from certain customers which were previously presented on a gross basis with agent commissions classified in cost of sales are now presented on a net basis.
The HR Technology SBU consists of the operations of Indeed, an online job search engine, and the operations of Glassdoor, an online job and company information site. HR Technology has maintained the highest growth of all the SBUs, and in the three-year period from FY2015, sales on a US dollar basis increased nearly fourfold from $770 million to $2.94 billion.1

The HR Technology SBU aims to maintain growth through the continued expansion of our existing online job advertising services. We intend to pursue further growth by utilizing technology and automation to simplify the job search experience and lower the cost-per-hire for employers. We are expanding our capabilities through internal investments and will consider acquisitions to advance in these areas. The HR Technology SBU aims to improve the efficiency of our HR Matching business across the Group by leveraging our industry expertise and through collaboration with the Media & Solutions and Staffing SBUs (see p.19/20 for information on the HR Matching market). Together, Indeed and Glassdoor are committed to reaching more job seekers and employers by growing the business in key markets around the world. Client success stories

Austin Capital Bank: Indeed Hire makes hiring easy

Founded in 2006, Austin Capital Bank is a national leader in US financial services innovation. In June 2017, the bank was experiencing rapid growth and its hiring needs grew as a result. President and CEO Erik Beguin and COO Stephanie Rankin found themselves overwhelmed with a large volume of resumes and unable to screen the hundreds of applicants. It was then that they turned to Indeed Hire, who assigned a hiring specialist who quickly came to understand their needs and deftly identified the right candidates for them. “Using Indeed Hire has been a huge time saver for us and has actually made our recruiting and hiring process enjoyable” said Erik. “It’s efficient, reasonably priced and it makes hiring easy, allowing us to focus again on critical operations functions. We plan to keep using Indeed Hire.”

Takashi Nishimura, General Manager at Indeed, explains that Indeed Hire is the next step in the evolution of a business with a singular focus—to help people get jobs. “We built Indeed Hire to provide an end-to-end recruitment solution at a fraction of the industry-average cost, helping employers lower their costs and helping more job seekers find the right job for them. Leveraging Indeed’s technology and data, we have dramatically simplified the entire process through automation, while backing it up with highly skilled specialists. Our simple success-based pricing model aligns our interests directly with those of our enterprise clients including SMEs, and our hiring professionals are seen as an extension of their talent attraction teams.” Takashi continues “This innovative approach places us at the forefront of the evolving HR market, enabling us to fulfill our focus of improving the experience for job seekers while helping employers find great hires.”
In addition, Glassdoor, acquired by Recruit Group in 2012, has made it easy and efficient for people to find and get the job search process much more efficient. We have scattered across the Internet onto a single site, making aggregation technology to bring together job listings their needs. Founded in the US in 2004, Indeed uses media and online job boards, to try to find a job that met had to use a wide variety of sources, including print a job was a burdensome process whereby job seekers the acquisition of Indeed. Not so long ago, searching for the search activities of individual users and recruiting activities of enterprise clients in a simple and efficient manner. We made a full-scale entry into this field in 2012 with the acquisition of Indeed. Not so long ago, searching for a job was a burdensome process whereby job seekers had to use a wide variety of sources, including print media and online job boards, to try to find a job that met their needs. Founded in the US in 2004, Indeed uses aggregation technology to bring together job listings scattered across the Internet onto a single site, making the job search process much more efficient. We have made it easy and efficient for people to find and get jobs in more than 60 countries. In addition, Glassdoor, acquired by Recruit Group in 2018, facilitates transparency in job searching by providing word-of-mouth information that helps people choose a job, including reviews of the work environment and information on salaries.

Expanding our services through M&A

We have also evolved our existing products and services through M&A. For example, through the acquisition of Interviewed.com in 2017, we launched Indeed Assessments in 2018, which brings a comprehensive library of assessments to help employers screen candidates for their aptitude, cognitive abilities, and specific skills that fit their hiring needs. The ability to immediately identify the job seeker’s skills has made it possible for individual users to find the jobs that suit them best, and for clients to quickly identify qualified candidates, significantly reducing the time and cost of hiring.

The HR industry continues to rapidly evolve. In particular, the pace of advancements in technologies such as machine learning is remarkable, and we are entering a genuinely exciting time for the industry. Our goal is to contribute to enriching people’s lives by using innovative technologies to eliminate the challenges of job searching and recruitment, making these processes more efficient.

Taking advantage of the strengths of our Group, which has a history of turning every change in the industry into an opportunity, we will continue to innovate so that growth in the HR Technology SBU can help drive the growth of the entire Recruit Group.

Isn’t there a better way?

Recruit Group has been evolving its HR business since it was founded 59 years ago in order to meet the changing needs of the HR industry. What we have always considered important is to continue asking “isn’t there a better way?” One answer can be found in the HR Technology SBU, which uses technology to improve job search activities of individual users and recruiting activities of enterprise clients in a simple and efficient manner.

Indeed and Glassdoor are working towards a common goal of making it easier to help people get jobs, while helping employers recruit and hire talent. Utilizing each company’s respective strengths, we are committed to achieving this goal.

Beyond online job advertising

Our core business of online job advertising has grown significantly over the last few years, and we will continue to expand our business on a global scale. At the same time, we will seek to expand into new markets beyond our existing online job advertising business. For example, the recruitment market is significantly larger than online job advertising, and we see this huge opportunity to disrupt this market and deliver a better solution to job seekers and employers. Indeed Hire, first launched in 2016, is a product uniquely positioned to tackle this new opportunity. Designed to meet the needs of businesses that do not have the time to review hundreds of resumes, the service leverages our data and strength in machine learning to deal with many of the repetitive and manual steps involved in traditional job placement and search. The result is a pay-per-hire full-service recruiting agency that helps improve each step of the hiring process for everyone.

To handle this, we take a three-step approach: we require that they obtain permission from the SBU headquarters in certain high-risk areas, we have them report back to us to confirm that they have put requested safeguards and training in place, and we track their activities through reporting. While what we’re doing is not easy, with carefully thought-out systems in place, highly-skilled engineers, and a company culture that promotes compliance, we believe we can scale both safely and securely, while allowing new companies a measure of independence.

When it comes to data security, our engineers play an absolutely essential role in securing our systems. We work closely with our highly skilled employees, including those from Indeed and Glassdoor, to develop and maintain policies and processes designed to protect our data. This can be quite a challenge when operating in so many countries. Our team of attorneys, privacy and security analysts, and engineers all over the world, work together in this task.
Indeed Stories

How Indeed wows the world
Chris Hyams
CEO, Indeed

Indeed's mission is to help people get jobs. After family and health, for most people a job is the most important thing in their life. This mission is what gets us up in the morning and what keeps us up at night. It grounds us in the incredible impact we have on society.

Indeed was founded in 2004 with two key principles, starting with the cornerstone of our mission: putting job seekers first in everything we do. In every decision about our products and our business, the question we ask is, “What's best for the job seeker?” This might sound obvious, but it's a revolutionary idea. We bring millions of jobs from all over the world into one place, and make it simple and fast for people to find the right opportunity.

The second principle of our business is delivering the most value to employers. Our core business model is pay-for-performance, which means that our incentives are aligned with our clients. If we deliver candidates, we get paid; if we don’t, we don’t get paid. This model ensures that our primary focus is on driving better results and more value. Indeed wows the world by putting job seekers first and delivering the most value to our clients. This combination offers a competitive advantage under a variety of market conditions. Over time, the job market will undoubtedly experience ups and downs in line with economic cycles. In more challenging times, we can offer job seekers greater choice, and at the same time offer employers a more efficient method of finding the right talent.

One of Indeed’s greatest strengths is our employees. They are inspired to be part of a company that has a positive impact on society by helping millions of people around the world find jobs. Our pay-for-performance business model relies on continuous innovation to help job seekers find jobs better, and to help employers hire better. It’s essential that our people are empowered to be innovative and entrepreneurial in their work. Diversity and inclusion is a key element of innovation, as the people we serve represent every demographic in the world. Indeed is for everyone, so the more diverse experience and thought we bring to the company, the better we are at identifying and solving new problems.

Being a part of Recruit Group has given us a strong competitive advantage. The Group has decades of operating experience in markets that have undergone significant transformations since the 1990s. This experience has provided insight into how to think about long-term sustainability and growth that few technology companies our age are likely to figure out on their own. We have also learned from Recruit Group’s successful hands-off approach to M&A. Indeed has run autonomously with a consistent mission and focus, but with the added strength of the Group behind us. This is a technique that we have extended to the companies that we have successfully incorporated.

Overall, this is a very exciting time for Indeed. I look forward to continuing to scale our current business, while also leading innovation in new markets like the job placement industry, so we can positively impact the lives of even more people around the world.

Our stories: The Orange Chair

Putting job seekers first is a fundamental principle that has been with us from the start at Indeed. It’s a philosophy that guides us in our work every day, and has become ingrained in our company culture. Several years ago, as our young company was growing rapidly, our CTO, Andrew Hudson, wanted to ensure that this idea remained front and center. To remind team members to always ask, “What’s best for the job seeker,” with every decision, he ordered an orange chair to be put in every meeting room, so the job seeker would always have a seat at the table. Since then, the orange chairs have kept us focused every day on putting job seekers first, and we’ve grown to help over 250 million unique visitors per month find jobs.

Glassdoor Stories

How Glassdoor brings transparency to the job market
Robert Hohman Co-Founder and CEO, Glassdoor

Our mission of “helping people everywhere find a job and company they love” is extremely important for our operations and employees. Before Glassdoor there was very little transparency in the jobs market, but by providing information on what it’s really like to work at a company, we are enabling people to make informed choices, leading to better work environments and fair pay worldwide. Right from the start, it was clear that Glassdoor’s mission fits perfectly with Recruit Group’s philosophy of “Opportunities for Life.” It’s also a Group that celebrates the unique strengths of the businesses within it, allowing Group companies to run autonomously. This empowers individual businesses such as Glassdoor to pursue independent goals in line with their strengths, and also has a positive impact upon talent retention.

Going forward, a key driver for Glassdoor’s growth will be global expansion. Perhaps the biggest change since joining Recruit Group has been our ability to invest in our long-term vision, which has meant faster international expansion. During calendar year 2019, Glassdoor launched 8 new sites, including several in Asia, Europe, and Latin America. Working alongside Indeed brings further advantages: with Glassdoor’s recognition as a leading destination for job seekers to learn about companies and job opportunities, and Indeed’s industry-leading technology and data, we are in a unique position to leverage their respective strengths to serve job seekers in a deeper way than has ever been done before, and help employers of all sizes recruit and hire top talent.

Next chapter to begin: CEO appointment

Glassdoor recently announced a change of leadership, with Christian Sutherland-Wong, Glassdoor President and COO, being promoted to Chief Executive Officer, effective as of January 6, 2020. Robert Hohman will remain with Glassdoor as chairman. Appointed as COO in early 2018, Christian oversees day-to-day operations, strategy, and business for Glassdoor. He joined the company in 2015 and previously held roles at LinkedIn and Bain & Company.

“I am honored and thrilled to lead Glassdoor into our next chapter” said Christian. “My vision is to build on Glassdoor’s excellence, as a business and as an employer, that Robert has established over the past twelve years.”

“I have full confidence that Christian will build on the success he’s brought to Glassdoor, doing what’s best for job seekers, employers, and our employees,” said Robert. “I am extremely proud of what Glassdoor has accomplished and it is well-positioned to further disrupt the employment industry.”

5 Mid-term Strategy

We intend to focus on achieving further growth of our existing advertising businesses in both Marketing Solutions and HR Solutions, by providing valuable information and services to individual users and help enterprise clients including SMEs to effectively attract users and recruit and hire talent, in various business areas such as Housing and Real Estate, Bridal, Travel, Dining, Beauty, and Recruiting in Japan.

We believe that we have identified a significant untapped opportunity in providing value-added SaaS solutions to SMEs, which can help their businesses potentially reduce operational and managerial costs.

With our nationwide sales force deepening relationships through frequent interactions with SMEs, we will expand our SaaS solutions with the provision of Air Business Tools, a comprehensive bundled suite of cloud-based solutions to support day-to-day management and operations, including reservation, CRM, POS system, payments, workforce management, hiring functions and other areas. Combining the SaaS solutions with our existing advertising businesses can enhance the growth of the Media & Solutions business. We have seen significant expansion of our SaaS solutions in recent years. The number of registered accounts for SaaS solutions*<sup>5</sup> has surpassed that of advertising accounts (see the chart on the left). The SaaS business contributes not only to increasing revenue per client and lowering the churn rate with existing clients, but also to expanding our enterprise client base, especially among SMEs such as smaller retailers. By further accelerating the expansion of our SaaS business, we will support the operational and managerial functions of our SMEs to help their businesses work smarter, as we have since the founding of Recruit Group.

We will aim to generate stable revenue growth and maintain the current high level of adjusted EBITDA*<sup>6</sup> margin by executing the strategies mentioned above.
Media & Solutions Leadership Messages

Transforming ourselves through diversity

Yoshihiro Kitamura
Head of Media & Solutions SBU

59 years of commitment to change

The Media & Solutions SBU has inherited and improved upon Recruit Group's core businesses while continuing to provide new values by tackling the challenges faced by individual users and enterprise clients. Our ability to change ourselves in response to the needs of the society and time in which we live is our strength, and it provides the foundations and infrastructure that support our SBU.

For example, when we started the online reservation service for our Beauty business in Marketing Solutions in 2007, there were less than 100 appointments booked per month through our online reservation platform. Now, over 300,000 salon appointments are booked online in a single day. More than a decade has passed and the business has continued to evolve; revenue for the Beauty business in FY2018 was 72 billion yen, an increase of 13.9% compared to the previous fiscal year, turning it into a sustained high-growth business.

Making appointments online is very common these days. If a service achieves widespread popularity, neither individual users nor enterprise clients are surprised by it or appreciate just how convenient it is compared to the past—it’s just a given that these services exist. In this way, we are now planting as many seeds as possible so that in ten or twenty years, when we look back at today, we can say, “That was it! That was when we changed the game!” This is why continuous change and innovation is essential.

A place where unique talents gather

Currently, in the Media & Solutions SBU, we are transforming our advertising business, which has been our core business since the foundation of the Group, using technology such as SaaS solutions. Through this process we are maintaining the constant pursuit of evolution and trying new approaches to push ourselves to challenge the status quo. We believe that the attitude of humbly seeking improvements inspires us to find better ways of doing things, which ultimately delivers more value to the world.

Within the Media & Solutions SBU, our people are a core strength. We come from a wide variety of backgrounds, and everyone has different areas of experience and capabilities. Here, these many unique talents are gathered in a single place. Sometimes, former employees return to the company or become involved in our business in a new way—both things that we welcome. The breadth of diversity of our employees is reflected in the results of our internal survey. Their unique talents complement each other, resulting in new ideas and new value. It is crucial that we provide a supportive environment for our people to generate ideas, which is how we can create new value.

The evolution of technology and the strengthening of governance

While helping fuel our transformation, the evolution of technology brings new risks. Consequently, we recognize that it is essential to manage these appropriately. In particular, to maintain a sustainable business, the protection of personal information and cybersecurity, as well as other aspects of risk management, are critical. For this reason, the entire Media & Solutions SBU is strengthening governance in a way that supersedes organizational divisions. We consider the evolution of technology to be an inescapable force, similar to gravity. Going against it is difficult, and if we are to realize a better world, we must embrace it. We are committed to pushing forward with our transformation, making full use of the latest tools available to us, while always keeping the extreme importance of risk management and compliance in mind.

Risk management

Kentaro Mori
Corporate Executive Officer, Risk Management, Recruit Co., Ltd.

Up until now, in the Media & Solutions SBU, we have promptly responded to changes in the business environment through quick decision-making based on our delegation system. At the same time, it is necessary to take a holistic viewpoint that accounts for both increasingly complex industry regulation and the expectations of society.

Operating many online platforms as we do, privacy management, including the protection of personal information, is one of the most important aspects of our business. We will increase the effectiveness of our risk management and further strengthen our governance system. Specifically, we plan to establish a team dedicated to privacy management and integrate legal functions in the Media & Solutions SBU in Japan. Also, we have established an Advisory Committee on data utilization which is comprised of both internal and external members to more appropriately reflect the needs of society, including our users. We have committed to revising our privacy policy to be more user-centric. We will also continue to provide our employees with ongoing training focused on privacy issues and personal data protection to reinforce the importance of privacy management.

We believe that the goal of risk management is the improvement of our enterprise value and the prevention of damage to it. Because each of our businesses has earned a competitive position in its marketplace, it is even more important to ensure that each business is scrutinized from both legal and ethical standpoints. Moving forward, we will identify priorities and execute highly effective risk management while carefully monitoring advancements in technology and social trends.

Recruit-CSIRT: Cybersecurity award winners

Recruit-CSIRT provides early detection to prevent cyberattacks, minimizing damage to Recruit Group's businesses in Japan. In February 2018, its advanced security measures and exemplary CSIRT activities were recognized and awarded the Encouragement Prize by the Minister of Internal Affairs and Communications. For further information on Recruit Group’s risk management, see p.79/80.
With Mt. Fuji being designated a World Heritage site, the city of Fujiyoshida is seeing a significant increase in tourists, including international visitors. However, very few of the local shops and hotels had accepted cashless payments, so we looked to address the fact that the city is not sufficiently equipped to meet the needs of consumers. With even more local revitalization plans in line for the future, AirPay is being introduced to more than 100 shops within the city, including shops on Mt. Fuji itself, and the entire region is moving towards accepting cashless payments, becoming able to better accommodate tourists. Tourists from overseas and mountain climbers do not carry much cash, so being able to accept credit cards and other payment methods to facilitate easy transactions ties directly into the revitalization efforts of the region. Shops that have begun accepting these payments have shared feedback such as, “It is so easy to operate even for a small shop like us,” and “Our sales have increased thanks to the introduction of AirPay.” In March of 2019, we entered into a comprehensive cooperation agreement with the city of Fujiyoshida for further local revitalization. We will take this initiative to other areas of Japan promoting cashless payments nationwide.

New business proposal system “Ring”

The Media & Solutions SBU functions as a hub for our new business proposal system “Ring,” which is open to all employees of Recruit Group. Ring started in 1982, and has produced numerous businesses including the bridal information platform “Zexy” and the online learning service “Study Sapuri.”

The themes are not limited to existing areas for Recruit Group, and all business proposals are welcome. Ring is the very embodiment of our Group’s basic principle of creating new value, and it gives participants an opportunity to turn their own ideas into proposals to seek the support and resources to make them a reality.

In 2019, almost 1,000 new business proposals were submitted through Ring. More than 70% of these proposals were outside the scope of the proposer’s primary job responsibility, and in this way Ring has become a vehicle for innovation that goes beyond departments and work duties.
Sustainability at the Media & Solutions SBU
Our activities to help promote a sustainable society

The foundation of our business model is to connect people who seek opportunities and organizations that provide them in various areas of daily consumption. This concept is directly aligned with Goal 10 of the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which is the elimination of inequality among people and nations. Meanwhile, the outcomes produced by each of our services are different. By helping improve the productivity of SME clients with our Air Business Tools, we believe that we will contribute to SDG Goal 8, which is focused on job satisfaction and economic growth. Our services for pursuing further education help advance progress towards SDG Goal 4 of quality education for all. By toppling these “SDGs Dominoes” (see p25), we will contribute to the realization of a sustainable society and economy in which no one is left behind.

Recruit / Recruit Jobs: physical condition measurement for seniors
We support seniors who have given up working due to age barriers, such as mismatches in job content with physical capabilities. This nationwide program aims to help such individuals find suitable work by measuring and visualizing their physical strength, operational skills, personality, and other personal traits. As of May 2019, our program has been held at 30 locations nationwide.

Recruit: wORK FIT
“wORK FIT” is a free employment support program to help anyone find their ideal job. This program is customized not only for undergraduates, but also for people who are unemployed, in reform schools, or children in orphanages. Since 2011, approximately 30,000 people have participated in the program (as of March, 2019).

Recruit / Recruit Office Support: supporting athletes
Since 2018, we have had a sponsorship agreement with five athletes and one coach to encourage compatibility between work and athletic activities. Sitting volleyball player Jun Tazawa has won numerous national tournaments, while wheelchair tennis player Koji Sugeno is fourth in the world ranking in the quad class (as of September, 2019).

Recruit Sumai Company—LGBT-friendly housing search support
We offer guidance on LGBT-friendly properties, advice on buying homes, the introduction of shared mortgages, and other support so that users can find a home without obstacles, regardless of sexual orientation. Properties and agencies that explicitly state that they will not refuse consultation or move-in on the basis of a tenant identifying as LGBT are recognized as LGBT-friendly.

Recruit Career: “Sankaku”
We began offering working internships in 2018 as a means for people to broaden their scopes of personal activities and have now had a total of over 2,000 participants. The program provides an opportunity for business people to broaden their careers without leaving their current positions, and engage with people and tasks outside of their current job environment.

Recruit: “iction!”
Started in 2015, project “iction!” is focused on concentrated working hours where employees can more easily balance their working lives with parenting. We have signed a cooperation agreement with the city of Kitakyushu to support women’s employment with the cooperation of the government and local companies. Through this activity, the rate of social return on investment (SROI) is about 14.6 fold, with a monetary value of approximately 200 million yen.

The Staffing SBU is uniquely positioned to meet the needs of both job seekers and employers through leveraging decades of experience of relationship building.

Investment in our employees and productivity improvements are key factors in delivering outstanding services for our agency workers on assignments and enterprise clients. We will continue to improve upon our commercial and operational excellence and are committed to delivering meaningful added value to our stakeholders and society in order to meet their changing needs and expectations.

Our operational priority—productivity improvement—will be realized through the leveraging of our strong local market positions with a clear focus on value over volume, driven by our Unit Management philosophy. This applies not only to our existing products and services, but also will help guide us as we work to establish new revenue streams. This strategy, together with our empowered employees, will strengthen our competitiveness while supporting the transformation of the Staffing SBU into an agile, technology-driven business to meet job seekers’ and enterprise clients’ needs and to have an increasingly meaningful impact on them.

Our focus within our global network is to add value to society. This is also at the heart of our business as we aim to provide opportunities to people from all walks of life by finding a workplace where they are safe, happy, rewarded, trained, and developed. In line with this, we consider respecting and advancing human rights an essential part of our daily business.

Being aware of our responsibility, we take a proactive approach to supporting and respecting the prosperity of people and the protection of their rights, independent of race, gender, religion, social status, or any other characteristic, within the context of our activities and operations.

With our position, we have the opportunity to provide a meaningful impact upon the lives of hundreds of thousands of people who currently face barriers to employment, and by extension, their families and communities. Within our staffing business, we also have many initiatives that help improve the lives of people who face barriers that leave them at a distance from employment. Examples include activities and projects to support immigrant populations, people with disabilities, veterans, and minority groups in finding jobs.

With this approach, our Staffing SBU is strategically positioned to deliver upon its commitment to society, while maintaining sustainable growth in the years ahead.

Strategy execution within the Unit Management System

A crucial element in the success of the Staffing SBU, whose business spans many countries and regions, is the localization of products and services to fit the needs of individual markets. To do this, we have introduced the Unit Management System, a style of management that provides individual businesses with the flexibility to make decisions based on their deep knowledge of local client need and market situation.

The Unit Management System divides an organization into small units based on differences in the markets they serve. Each unit is regarded as if they are a standalone company and the Unit Manager is given authority to make decisions. This arrangement allows each unit to devise and execute actions to implement our strategic priorities effectively for each market, with the aim of maximizing their local profits.

This system is designed to enhance the sense of ownership by the person responsible for each unit by giving discretion to promote higher-quality decision making.

In addition, common challenges and solutions in global markets are categorized and shared within SBUs in order to align each unit’s strategy to our overall strategy quickly and simply, and to maximize each unit’s ability to create value for their clients.

As each unit implements this process, productivity and profitability will improve and contribute to productivity improvements for the entire SBU.
Case studies

The Unit Management System

With almost three decades in the industry, Peoplebank, a Chandler Macleod Group company, is South East Asia and Oceania’s leading IT and digital talent solutions provider. Peoplebank joined Recruit Group in 2015, and its implementation of our Unit Management System (see p60) demonstrates the effectiveness of this approach in managing our group companies.

In Australia, the IT recruitment market has had lower margins than elsewhere, and in 2014, when Peoplebank was proceeding with its own previous MBAs’ post-acquisition integration, the market experienced a significant decline. It was then that Peoplebank began implementing the Unit Management System company-wide while retooling on its core services. All 35 top managers took part in Unit Management workshops, and subsequently, the company has implemented significant changes. These include the simplification of its cost-allocation methodology, realignment of short-term incentives with EBITDA, and the open publishing of unit results every month while implementing incremental measurements weekly. Since 2015, the company’s EBITDA margin has almost doubled. Today at Peoplebank, the Unit Management System has become a core part of basic training for new hires. “The system has helped drive Peoplebank’s business foundation with a high-performance culture,” said Peter Acheson, longstanding Peoplebank CEO, and new CEO of Chandler Macleod Group. “Making small incremental improvements is the only way to get there.”

Case studies

Supporting the challenges faced by the young “Freeter” class through engineer dispatch

In Japan, the combination of an aging society and favorable economic conditions has led to a shortage of workers in many industries. This situation is especially acute in the IT sector, where it is estimated that by 2030 there will be a shortage of up to 790,000 workers. At the same time, there are approximately 1.4 million people under the age of 35 who are currently working as “freeters” that find themselves struggling to form mid- to long-term careers and achieve incomes above a certain level.

In a bid to help meet the needs of both job seekers and employers, in 2012, Recruit Staffing Information Services started an engineer dispatch service. Under this program, inexperienced engineers—including members of the young freeter class—continue to receive training while gaining experience at client businesses through our Career Design Style program. Rather than setting the number of job matches as a measure of success, we focus on post-job matching management indicators of the engineer’s career development. We work with clients to provide OJT* which leads to professional licenses, and have developed a scheme for salary increases divided by gross profit) in the Staffing SBU. In the staffing industry, competition for highly skilled clerical talent is intensifying. In response to this, Secretary Plus Belgium has established a clear differentiating brand strategy as well as a detailed follow-up system to support agency workers. This has led to high satisfaction rates among both agency workers and enterprise clients. Linda Cappelle, the company’s CEO, said “Secretary Plus’ “Plus” points to the high level of added value that our people bring. The professionalism of our staff and the enthusiasm of each employee who supports them are key factors in our business growth, and strong teamwork is the very foundation of our success.”

Risk Management

Sander Weisz Global Director, Risk Management, Legal, Compliance & Sustainability, Recruit Global Staffing

The introduction of the Staffing SBU Risk Management Committees in 2017 has had the positive effect of focusing everyone’s attention on the key risks that require mitigating action. Discussions held in the Staffing SBU Committee are subsequently reported to the Risk Management Committee of Recruit Holdings.

Our Staffing SBU has operating companies around the globe, and to effectively manage the risks that they face in the course of doing business, each operating company has its own Risk Management Committee which holds regular meetings. A representative of the SBU Committee attends these meetings and then shares the outcomes at SBU Committee meetings for review and discussion. In this way, the Risk Management Committees within the operating companies help our leadership teams focus on the risks that require mitigating action, helping us realize our goals securely and efficiently.

In addition to this reporting system, each operating company is responsible for establishing its own risk management systems based on Recruit Group’s policies and the SBU’s guidelines. They periodically report to the SBU Headquarters’ risk management department on specific risks that are unique to their local operating environments.

One of our most important operational risks is the frequent changes in labor laws all around the world, and it is essential that we comply with all updated laws and local legislation. Another priority is ensuring that our cybersecurity and data protection policies and systems are managed extremely carefully in order to control risks in these sensitive areas. Overall, our role as the risk management department is to support and assist each operating company within the Staffing SBU in executing its strategies to help realize our collective goals.

For further information on Recruit Group’s risk management, see p79/80
The Staffing SBU plays an integral role in the SDGs Domino Effect (see p25 for details). By working to create optimal matching between candidates and clients, which directly leads to “SDG 10. Reduced Inequalities,” we are also contributing to the achievement of “SDG 5. Gender Equality.” This is particularly the case in countries and regions where female participation in the labor market is low. Through this, we can also contribute to “SDG 8. Decent Work and Economic Growth.” Additionally, we firmly believe that it is important to protect the human rights of all stakeholders, including temporary agency workers as well as our management and employees, and ensure diversity and inclusion while operating our services. On this point, we adhere to the United Nations Guiding Principles for Businesses and Human Rights”, and continue to raise the standards of our services, including our Staffing business.

External Board Director

Diversity and a culture of openness are sources of strength for the Recruit Group

One year after my appointment as an External Board Director, I now understand that the source of the Recruit Group’s strength is in its diversity. The focus is on hiring talents, and I believe that bringing together professionals with diverse capabilities and skills is what makes the organization strong. Moreover, my initial impression of the management being young, quick to act, and highly transparent remains, and I genuinely feel that the organization has incredible energy and power constantly flowing within it.

As Recruit Group is a group with such momentum, my role as an External Board Director is to provide a mid-to-long-term perspective, which also includes looking at the risks. Therefore, I prepare thoroughly for Board of Directors Meetings to serve appropriately and ensuring that I include all of the items that I need to raise. In addition to the Board of Directors Meetings, there are many other opportunities for information sharing, and I think it’s good to be able to have discussions in advance from a broad perspective. This kind of corporate culture of openness is one of the strengths of the Recruit Group.

Also, the Recruit Group has established voluntary committees, and I serve as the chairman of the Nomination Committee. Succession planning is not only about appointing a successor, but also setting up the mechanism. I believe I can contribute to the Recruit Group due to the fact that I have first-hand experience of building a mechanism to designate a successor.

Rony Kahan

Board Director

Embracing disruptive elements as opportunities

As a Board Director, I believe I can contribute the most by leveraging my experience in the HR technology field in the US to help navigate the dramatic changes facing our industry. I take a long-term perspective and look five to ten years into the future, and ask difficult questions such as, how will the HR landscape evolve? What changes will AI and robotics bring? What will job seekers want, and what new technologies should we pursue to meet those needs?

It’s critically important to be ready to adapt to these disruptive elements, embracing them as opportunities. I am confident that we can do this: Recruit Group has always been at the forefront of change, and in fact, in our areas of business we are often the ones driving it.

New technologies also offer the potential for collaboration across our Group. Each of our businesses has unique strengths that have helped them become leaders in their fields, and closer collaboration can help unlock further potential in all areas.

From my US perspective, I see our governance system as being quite unique in that we have four Audit & Supervisory Board Members, including two external members, whose primary role is to audit the Board. They examine policies and decisions from multiple angles, and provide extremely valuable perspectives that are unique to each of them. They help enhance the effectiveness of Board of Directors Meetings as a whole.

External Board Director

Strengthening corporate governance, enhancing diversity of the Board of Directors

It has been more than a year since I became an External Board Director at Recruit Holdings, but my impression of Recruit Group remains the same as it was when I took up the position—that of being youthful, energetic and with the potential for rapid growth.

External Board Directors act as spokespersons for the shareholders, and I am fully aware of the important role we serve in preventing conflict of interests arising between shareholders and management. To that end, the amount and quality of information we can obtain is important—and the Group understands this. For example, we are given the opportunity to visit and hear directly from the front lines of businesses in the Group’s overseas bases. With this kind of background knowledge we can then offer informed opinions and ask quality questions during Board meetings.

This open stance towards External Board Directors also contributes to enhancing the accountability of Recruit Group to its shareholders.

On the other hand, the current Board of Directors lacks diversity, particularly in terms of gender. In that sense, I appreciate that Recruit Holdings has announced that it will nominate at least one female Board Director candidate by the Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders in 2021. Recruit Group is a company that has put a priority on diversity since the outset, so I believe that the Group’s diversity will continue to evolve going forward. Recruit Group has set a goal of becoming a global leader in the HR Matching business, and in order to achieve this, I believe that it is important for the governance system to also meet global standards.
Corporate Governance

Based on the Recruit Group management philosophy, our Board of Directors gives priority to corporate governance aimed at achieving long-term and sustainable growth, increasing our enterprise value and shareholder value.

Our governance system – Company with an Audit & Supervisory Board

Recruit Holdings has adopted a system called the “Company with an Audit & Supervisory Board” under the Companies Act of Japan. In this unique Japanese system, a member of the Audit & Supervisory Board is directly appointed at the General Meeting of Shareholders and is independent from the Board of Directors. While Audit & Supervisory Board Members don’t have voting rights, they attend the Board meetings to effectively supervise the Board of Directors.

Responsibilities of the Board of Directors

2. Management oversight
3. Executive decisions that could have a major impact on Recruit Group
4. Decisions on matters required to be resolved by the Board of Directors as provided in relevant laws and regulations

Responsibilities of the Audit & Supervisory Board

1. Supervising the activities and performance of each Board Director
2. Evaluating the appropriateness and performance of the Accounting Auditor

Business Strategy Meeting

An advisory body to the CEO and chaired by the CEO. The meeting deliberates matters such as investments and personnel on which authority has been delegated by the Board of Directors.

Strategic Business Unit (SBU)

From April 2018, Recruit Group began operating under a new management structure, as a result of the Group Reorganization with three SBUs at the core. In this structure, Recruit Holdings delegates authority to each SBU Headquarters and operating companies for them to operate businesses in a self-sustaining manner, while practicing effective corporate governance in order to clearly grasp critical information related to operations and risks.

1. Majority of Board members of SBU Headquarters are non-executive Board Directors assigned from Recruit Holdings.
2. Majority of Board members of major subsidiaries of each SBU are non-executive Board Directors assigned from each SBU Headquarters.
3. SBU Headquarters have a responsible person in charge of corporate planning, investment management, finance, HR management, and risk management who manage and supervise each operating company by coordinating with Recruit Holdings.

- Evaluation Committee

Leadership in Action

Board nomination

Nomination policy of Board Directors
Recruit Holdings nominates candidates for Board Directors from a large potential candidate pool in order to ensure candidate diversity, based on skills, leadership, background, judgment, personality, insight, and experience and selects those found to be most capable of fulfilling the duties and responsibilities of a Board Director. In proposing the reappointment of an incumbent Board Director, we consider the person’s term in office, performance and contribution to the Board of Directors, in addition to the above factors.

Nomination process of Board Directors
The nomination of Board Director candidates is deliberated each year in the Nomination Committee, which is chaired by an External Board Director who is also an Independent Board Director; the Committee consists mainly of outside Board Directors and outside Audit & Supervisory Board Members. The nominations are then decided by the Board of Directors, who, to ensure appropriateness and fairness of the nomination process, are expected to give sincere consideration to the Nomination Committee recommendations.

In an effort to promote the nomination of female Board Director candidates going forward, Recruit Holdings is committed to including qualified female candidates in the nomination pool considered by the Nomination Committee.

Recent measures to strengthen corporate governance structure
Our corporate governance journey is one of continuous improvements, with a focus on increasing enterprise value and shareholder value over the long-term in a sustainable manner.

Board effectiveness

Internal assessment
Recruit Holdings conducts annual self-evaluations of the Board of Directors in order to enhance the Board’s effectiveness. Specifically, we conduct a questionnaire of all members of the Board of Directors and the Audit & Supervisory Board regarding the effectiveness of deliberations of the Board of Directors and the performance of its functions, and then conduct interviews as necessary. The results of these surveys are then discussed in the Board of Directors Meeting. The results of the surveys for FY2018 showed that our Board of Directors is deemed to be adequately fulfilling its roles and responsibilities in terms of both decision-making and supervision over business execution. On the other hand, matters to be looked at closely in the short term and in the mid- to long-term were identified for raising the enterprise value and shareholder value.

In the short term, our Board of Directors believes it has a strong need to increase its membership diversity, including gender. Consequently, it is committed to including at least one female Board Director candidate among a pool of capable Director candidates to be nominated at the General Meeting of Shareholders to be held by June 2021.

In the mid- to long-term, the Board of Directors recognizes the necessity to improve the effectiveness of corporate governance as a Group, and also to incorporate the standpoint of more diverse stakeholders to deepen its discussion.

Board diversity

Recruit Holdings recognizes that diversity of the Board of Directors is essential for improving the quality of discussions in Board of Directors Meetings and for promoting the innovation needed for long-term growth, faced with the rapid diversification of our businesses, individuals users, enterprise clients, and employees. Therefore, we are committed to further enhancing the gender diversity of the Board.

For gender diversity, our Board of Directors is committed to including at least one female Board Director candidate to be nominated at the General Meeting of Shareholders by June 2021.*

Remuneration for our Board Directors and Audit & Supervisory Board Members

Remuneration principles

i. Set remuneration levels that will attract outstanding management talent globally ii. Make remuneration plans highly performance-based
iii. Tie remuneration to medium and long-term enterprise value
iv. Make the remuneration decision process highly objective and transparent

Remuneration levels

Remuneration levels are set using benchmarks linked to executive compensation levels at enterprises in Japan and overseas of comparable business type and scale, as compiled by outside database services.

Remuneration structure

Remuneration consists of the following four types. The stock option plan as a long-term incentive was introduced after being approved at the General Meeting of Shareholders on June 19, 2019.

Recruit Holdings’ shares in an amount equivalent to cash reflecting performance-based indicators in the base amount*4 are purchased on the market and held in a trust account, then turned over to the recipient upon retirement.

Stock options (Long-term incentive)

Stock options are allotted equivalent to the base amount*. After a period prescribed by the Board of Directors has elapsed, the recipient by exercising the stock options can obtain Company shares at their closing price on the day of allotment (profits are realized only when the share price goes up).

* The above “base amount” is decided separately for each type of remuneration and based on each role.
* Short-term incentive, in addition to the above, reflects the individual performance evaluation for the fiscal year.
* For detailed information on Adjusted EBITDA, see p.39.
* For detailed information on EBITDA and Adjusted EPS, see p.1/12.

How is remuneration determined?

Recruit Holdings has established an Evaluation Committee and Remuneration Committee, each chaired by an External Board Director and having a majority of outside members, as advisory bodies to the Board of Directors for the purpose of enhancing objectivity and transparency of remuneration for Board Directors and Audit & Supervisory Board Members. Regarding the amount of individual remuneration, remuneration for Board Directors is determined by the Board of Directors, taking into account the reports by the Evaluation Committee and the Remuneration Committee, while remuneration for Audit & Supervisory Board Members is determined based on consultation among the Audit & Supervisory Board Members, with remuneration ranges approved by the General Meeting of Shareholders.

Effective risk management as the foundation of business growth

Hisayuki Idekoba
COO, CSO, CFO, Senior Managing Corporate Executive Officer and Board Director, Head of HR Technology SBU

For Recruit Group to successfully pursue its growth strategy on a global scale, a solid foundation of risk management and compliance is essential. Considering the rapidly changing environment surrounding the Internet business, simultaneously achieving growth and managing risk is a challenge, but with the development of appropriate systems and safeguards, we are positioning the Group to meet this. To anticipate change in both technology and business environments, and quickly expand the business, we are transferring most decision-making authority related to business operations to the three SBUs. At the same time, to mitigate risk and maximize the merits of the SBU system, we have established a Risk Management Committee within each SBU, to enhance risk management effectiveness on the front lines of the business.

We regard security management, including the protection of personal information, as one of the most important risks. In particular, the handling of data in the HR Matching business in which we aim to expand, is highly sensitive. As the laws and regulations of countries and regions change and evolve, we must strengthen our responsiveness and raise the level of our risk management. While it is no easy task that we must meet head-on as we work to become a global leader in the HR Matching business.

The advancements of technologies such as machine learning and the changes brought to labor markets worldwide can present both risks and opportunities—depending on our actions. Amid rapid change, effective and steady risk management is the key to providing opportunities continuously that offer real meaning to both individual users and enterprise clients. To achieve this, we are implementing various measures such as strengthening cybersecurity projects with additional expert engineers. Looking ahead, we will not only focus on recruiting and retaining security specialists, but will also work to further strengthen our risk management systems through all means necessary, including reviews of our governance rules and procedures.

Beyond powering new businesses, we also see that technology provides significant opportunities for efficient and effective risk management and compliance activities. We aim to pursue risk management appropriate for our Group, while looking in-depth at swiftly changing global trends.

Risk management structure

To promptly execute the appropriate counter-measures to any of the multiple risks faced by our businesses, Recruit Group has established a risk management structure within each SBU, in addition to an overarching structure within Recruit Holdings. Specifically, each of our three SBUs has Risk Management Committees, focused on the specific risks that their individual SBU faces. These committees are responsible for identifying important risks related to their own businesses and setting out appropriate mitigation measures, before reporting back to the Risk Management Committee of Recruit Holdings.

The Risk Management Committee of the holding company, which meets twice a year, serves as an advisory body to the Board of Directors. In addition to reviewing the reports received from the three SBUs, the committee identifies the important risks that the Group as a whole faces, determines the priority of the risks, and establishes appropriate responses. These outcomes are then reported to the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors also has a quarterly report on compliance and risk management, in order to appropriately monitor the current status of risk across the Group, and to determine appropriate responses.

Initiatives at SBUs

With each SBU responsible for running its own business operations, we believe that it is essential that each SBU also carries out its own risk management (See p44, 52 and 62 for risk management in each SBU). The Recruit Group Risk Escalation Rules then ensure prompt reporting back to Recruit Holdings and information sharing regarding critical issues within the entire Group. Recruit Holdings then takes necessary actions in accordance with the overarching Recruit Group Risk Management Policy.

Compliance initiatives

Recruit Group views compliance as a fundamental prerequisite for our business activities, and defines it as “Meeting society’s expectations and demands through appropriate action, by both the company and individuals, beyond the framework of legal compliance.” We have therefore established the Recruit Group Code of Ethics (see adjacent), which describes certain fundamental legal and ethical practices that all officers and employees in Recruit Group are required to follow. We also stipulate the “Recruit Group Compliance Policy” as a guideline for our compliance activities.

To instill this mindset and behaviors throughout the Group, we have set up, both at Recruit Holdings and at each of the three SBUs, Compliance Committees (see p17/172) that decide upon and monitor Group-wide policies and then report to the Board of Directors. In FY2019, we are implementing three policies as Group-wide initiatives.

1. “Tone at the Top” compliance messages from management to employees: communicated through speeches and email, the management of each operating company within the Group convey the importance of compliance directly to employees.
2. Employee training: we provide all employees in the Group with ethics and compliance training at least once a year.
3. Setting KPIs for compliance activities: we are boosting the effectiveness of our compliance activities by setting KPIs for compliance activities at each SBU, e.g., aiming for 100% attendance of compliance tests. In addition, at both Recruit Holdings and operating companies in the Group, we are setting up internal whistleblowing contact points and taking steps—such as publicizing the whistleblowing system and protecting whistleblowers—to make it easy for employees to use the system. We submit quarterly reports to the Board of Directors on the number of whistleblowing reports and the action that was taken.

The Sustainability Committee at the center of the orbit

The Sustainability Committee is an advisory body to the Board of Directors. It is comprised of four external members (on two-year terms), the CEO, the Board Director in charge, the Corporate Executive Officers in charge, and the head of each SBU. The committee meetings, which are held twice a year, present an opportunity for management to obtain a clear understanding of the expectations, demands, and criticisms of Recruit Group based on conversations and interactions with stakeholders, various changes to the current social environment, and the increased importance of corporate responsibility. At the same time, the meetings provide a platform for us to discuss high-priority actions and themes that we must deliberate in the mid- to long-term. In FY2018, among the numerous agenda points, we placed an added emphasis on business and human rights. We also established a task force to carry out specific actions following a discussion and resolution by the Board of Directors.

The orbit consists of discussing the opinions of society at large, deciding what we must do as a corporation, taking actions based on our principles, and sharing our achievements with stakeholders. We are constantly listening to societal expectations, and through this cyclical mechanism with the Sustainability Committee at the center, we continue in the sustainable creation of new value for society.

One of the most important factors in Recruit Group’s Value Creation Process is sustainability, and this is managed through a framework we call the “Sustainability Orbit.” With this framework, we initially identify the demands and expectations our stakeholders have for us through dialogue, and Town Hall Meetings with management and employees. Following this, we discuss them at length in the Sustainability Committee, which includes external experts and internal management. Finally, having obtained a commitment from the Board of Directors of Recruit Holdings, we promote specific sustainability-related activities that align with our guiding principles to bring our management philosophy to life—completing the orbit.

Expert opinion
Aditi Mohapatra
BSR, Director, Women’s Empowerment, New York

One of the most critical elements for the success of a corporate sustainability program is the commitment of the senior leadership team. An effective strategy requires the genuine engagement of decision makers and a willingness to tackle big challenges that go to the heart of the business. The structure of Recruit Group’s sustainability framework, including the active involvement of the CEO, SBU Heads, and additional key executives, is an impressive example of the prioritization of integrated sustainability strategies for a global organization.

Another key element for success is the involvement of a diverse range of independent expert advisors to assess and make recommendations based on their experience at the forefront of sustainability. Here again, Recruit Group is leading by example—I have seen how external advice received in one committee meeting has been taken on board and progressed by the time of the next.

The incorporation of international frameworks and guidelines, with a core focus on the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, links Recruit Group’s efforts with the wider global push to achieve some critically important targets in the next ten years. Recruit Group clearly understands that sustainable growth is not just essential for a business, but is their duty as a corporate citizen.

The businesses in HR Technology, Media & Solutions and Staffing segments are all experiencing significant disruption, but seeing the way in which the company is proactively examining sustainability challenges, considering its role in society, and working to develop solutions is impressive. Whether it be diversity and inclusion, or potential biases in AI technologies, strong efforts are being made to tackle issues for which there may yet be no clear answer.

Moving forward, I would encourage Recruit Group to continue to be ambitious in its approach to sustainability and to demonstrate leadership in this field.
The process of formulating material matters for sustainability

Recruit Group has established five material matters and related SDGs (see p81), through a formulation process that is based on the following materiality analysis.

Since its foundation in 1960, Recruit Group has been expanding its business under our management philosophy of contributing to a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest. With our business portfolio changing and expanding globally, we conducted a materiality analysis in FY2017 to determine the relationship between the expectations of society and the services we offer. The analysis found five material matters for us to prioritize within Recruit Group's businesses.

We categorized the expectations of stakeholders into 18 topics and mapped them along a vertical axis, then plotted their correlation to our business along a horizontal axis. These results were then shared and discussed with Board Directors and external experts during two sessions of the Sustainability Committee.

Based on these discussions, we narrowed down the topics to six goals from the SDGs and five related material matters.

The six SDGs and five material matters are as follows: Respect Human Rights, derived from the realization of human rights, as stated in the forward; Close the opportunity gap, which encompasses SDGs 1: No Poverty, 4: Quality Education, and 10: Reduced Inequalities; Celebrate Diversity and Inclusion, incorporating Goal 5: Gender Equality; Inspire new ways of working, derived from Goal 8: Decent work and economic growth; and Conserve the environment, to implement Goal 13: Climate Action.

We realized that the success of these five material matters is interconnected and concluded that, rather than setting priorities among the five themes, a multifaceted approach would be ideal.

In terms of an action plan, we are disclosing our initiatives regarding human rights and the environment and are working to better understand the international situation in order to quickly bring ourselves up to global standards.

Five material matters for sustainability

Sustainability for Recruit Group means to create value for society in a sustainable manner through our corporate activities. In addition to the business itself, we are focused on a wide range of social contribution activities and are working to create an organization where every employee has the opportunity to participate (see p48, 48, 56 and 64). Our activities are rooted in the following five material matters.

1. No Poverty
   - What does work mean to us? How can we work better? Since our foundation as a recruitment advertising company, we have consistently asked these questions. We will continue to be innovative in creating paths of work for individuals to achieve their aspirations.

2. Quality Education
   - Our basic principle of creating a brighter world where all individuals can live life to the fullest starts from respecting human rights. We believe that the more people are free to pursue their passions, the better our collective future becomes. To achieve this goal, we will work to close the opportunity gap by continuing to successfully match individuals and businesses in ways that have not been done before.

3. Decent work and economic growth
   - We are focused on a wide range of social contribution activities and are working to create an organization where every employee has the opportunity to participate. Our activities are rooted in the following five material matters.

4. Reduced inequalities
   - Our activities are rooted in the following five material matters.

5. Gender equality
   - Our activities are rooted in the following five material matters.

6. Climate action
   - Our activities are rooted in the following five material matters.
The performance of our businesses is generally sensitive to economic, social and geopolitical conditions in our main operating markets and globally. The markets in which we operate are highly competitive, and competition has generally intensified in recent years across our operating segments due to the increased complexity of the operating environments in which we operate and the decline and aging of the overall population. In addition, our results of operations could be adversely affected by changes in consumer spending activity that negatively impacts demand for our services due to a reduction in advertising expenditures and other cost reduction initiatives or uncertainty. Any reduction in spending or hiring by employers would in turn reduce demand for our HR Matching business. In addition, our Marketing Solutions operations in our Media & Solutions segment, adverse economic conditions may affect our enterprise clients’ demand for our services and result in a reduction in advertising expenditures and other cost reduction initiatives or changes in consumer spending activity that negatively impact their businesses. The outlook for the economy in our main operating markets remains highly uncertain and could be adversely affected by a range of economic, social and geopolitical developments. For example, with respect to the economic environment continues to be challenging due to a number of factors, including continued deflation, uncertainty regarding the impact of the Brexit on the European economy, and the related uncertainties about the Brexit and the effects of the Brexit on the overall population. In the United States, there remains significant economic uncertainty, including political tensions between the United States and China and other major trading partners as well as other trade policies being pursued in the United States. In Europe, the potential impact of the planned exit of the United Kingdom from the European Union has remained highly uncertain, and the related geopolitical environment in many major European countries remains highly uncertain. As a result of these factors, including increased competition and the declining consumer spending activity, the performance of our businesses is generally sensitive to economic, social and geopolitical conditions in our main operating markets and globally.
The continuous development of new devices and products and services incorporating new technology may be substantial and such upgrades or implementations may not be cost-effective.

Any upgrades to our technology and infrastructure may not achieve the desired results or may otherwise be ineffective, or we may be forced to change our strategies. However, it is difficult to formulate effective strategies in entry into and development of new businesses, as well as our long-term strategic objectives for each of our operating segments. Our business strategies entail achieving sustainable growth through the development of a broad, geographically diverse portfolio of businesses and for the expansion of existing businesses along with entry into and development of new businesses. In part through prudent use of strategic alliances and acquisitions, it is difficult to formulate effective strategies for our businesses due to the inherent uncertainties surrounding our future performance and market conditions and our strategies may not be effective, or we may be forced to change our strategies in the future due to any number of factors.

We have established a number of strategies for each of our operating segments that we believe will allow us to achieve long-term revenue and profit growth. However, each of these strategies is subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, including the following:

- In our HR Technology segment, we intend to pursue continued investment in and acquisition of new online job advertising business primarily through Indeed and Glassdoor while expanding our capabilities through continued growth investments including acquisitions. However, there is no assurance that we will be able to achieve revenue growth. We have made product and service investments in our areas of expansion is not as strong as we anticipate, the competitive landscape for our products and services is less attractive compared to our original estimates. In addition, even if we are successful, such development may result in a reduction in the profitability of our existing traditional businesses.
- While we believe we have identified specific opportunities that will allow us to achieve our strategies, there is no assurance that such opportunities will in fact translate into future growth. Our strategies are based on a number of assumptions we have made with respect to consumer sentiment, consumer activity trends, demographic trends, enterprise client demand for our products and services, changes in consumer preference, global economic trends, applicable laws and regulations, currency exchange rates, the emergence of new technologies, technological innovation, employment activity and other factors, each of which is subject to significant uncertainty and may not have the level of impact as we anticipate. Our ability to achieve our strategic objectives may be adversely affected, if, for example, demand for our products and services in our areas of expansion is not as strong as we anticipate, the competitive landscape for our products and services is less attractive compared to our original estimates. Our efforts to increase our individual user appeal and enterprise client coverage are not effective, alternative technologies, services or competitors appear or we fail to retain the engineering and other employee/employer relationships, labor or intellectual property risk.

We may not be able to acquire businesses or divest our existing businesses in a timely manner due to the changing market conditions and economic environment.

Our current strategy is to expand our business in the Staffing segment by focusing on improving profitability across our global operations. However, we may be unable to achieve improvements in profitability, due to the worsening of the business environment, particularly in Europe, the tightening of credit conditions, and the impact of various regulations in any of our major operating environments. In addition, the key performance indicators we use to track the progress of our businesses could be inadequate or ineffective and may not result in our overestimating or misjudging our progress in achieving key business goals.

As we expand our existing services or launch new ones, we may face increased competition, greater than expected costs in establishing or expanding services and hiring and training the necessary personnel, difficulties predicting market and individual user and enterprise client trends and the performance of our new businesses, returns from new initiatives that are less attractive than expected or slower to materialize, unanticipated costs and difficulties, or other challenges that prevent us from successfully realizing our business goals. On the other hand, it is also possible that we may need to exit from existing businesses or withdraw from planned investments. These factors, even if we are successful, such developments may result in a reduction in the profitability of our existing traditional businesses.

We also intend to invest in expanding our presence in the market for our HR Matching business. While our HR Matching business currently operates in the online job advertising market through our HR Technology and Media & Solutions segments, we also intend to introduce technology-driven solutions from our HR Technology segment, such as Indeed Hire, an employment placement service which uses a pay per hire model, that create cost efficiencies through automation of traditional human-driven processes in the job placement and search market and temporary staffing market. However, there can be no assurance that we will be able to successfully develop and introduce such solutions or that our solutions will gain market acceptance, and we may be unable to achieve a return on our investments in these new solutions. In addition, even if we are successful, such development may also result in a reduction in the profitability of our existing traditional businesses.

As part of our business strategy, we have actively engaged in acquisitions and may continue to do so in the future as attractive opportunities emerge. We have in the past acquired and may in the future acquire target companies that are unprofitable, and the consolidation of such target companies into our overall results may materially and adversely affect our consolidated financial condition and results of operations.

While our strategies are based on our current and expected future operating conditions, there can be no assurance that our estimates of total addressable markets are accurate and may not succeed in expanding our business. We may fail to achieve our strategic objectives, in part because of our failures to adapt to new technologies and the constantly evolving regulatory and competitive landscape.

In our Media & Solutions segment, we intend to focus on stable growth of our advertising business while expanding its Saas offerings targeting SMEs. We may fail to achieve our business in this segment if SMEs do not adopt our Saas solutions or our advertising business to the extent we expect, whether due to our own effective acquisition of new users or SMEs as enterprise clients or our products being less attractive or innovative compared to those of our competitors. The competitive environment in which we operate may be substantially affected by the unexpected emergence of new competitive opportunities to monetize our Saas business.

We face competition from businesses that have implemented new technology faster than us or make better use of such technology than we do; Products and services incorporating new technology may contain bugs, defects or other design flaws; and The continuous development of new devices and technologies makes it difficult to predict future trends in the areas in which we operate.

We may not succeed in executing our business strategy.

In order to achieve further growth of our business, we have adopted a number of medium-term strategies as well as our long-term strategic objectives for each of our operating segments. Our business strategies entail achieving sustainable growth through the development of a broad, geographically diverse portfolio of businesses and calls for the expansion of existing businesses along with entry into and development of new businesses. In part through prudent use of strategic alliances and acquisitions, it is difficult to formulate effective strategies for our businesses due to the inherent uncertainties surrounding our future performance and market conditions and our strategies may not be effective, or we may be forced to change our strategies in the future due to any number of factors.

- While we believe we have identified specific opportunities that will allow us to achieve our strategies, there is no assurance that such opportunities will in fact translate into future growth. Our strategies are based on a number of assumptions we have made with respect to consumer sentiment, consumer activity trends, demographic trends, enterprise client demand for our products and services, changes in consumer preference, global economic trends, applicable laws and regulations, currency exchange rates, the emergence of new technologies, technological innovation, employment activity and other factors, each of which is subject to significant uncertainty and may not have the level of impact as we anticipate. Our ability to achieve our strategic objectives may be adversely affected, if, for example, demand for our products and services in our areas of expansion is not as strong as we anticipate, the competitive landscape for our products and services is less attractive compared to our original estimates. In addition, even if we are successful, such development may result in a reduction in the profitability of our existing traditional businesses.
- As part of our business strategy, we have actively engaged in acquisitions and may continue to do so in the future as attractive opportunities emerge. We have in the past acquired and may in the future acquire target companies that are unprofitable, and the consolidation of such target companies into our overall results may materially and adversely affect our consolidated financial condition and results of operations. Although we conduct due diligence reviews of acquisition targets, there can be no assurance that our due diligence review process will disclose all relevant risks, legal, compliance or regulatory issues, losses or other liabilities or that the assessment of disclosed risks and liabilities will be accurate. In particular, with respect to acquisitions and investments in the technology sector, we may have difficulty accurately assessing the future viability and growth trajectory of target companies or technologies, especially if the technologies are at the early stages of development or rapidly evolving. We may also face uncertainties whether investments and alliances entail a number of risks, including, among others:
  - Expenses incurred and difficulties in integrating or assessing the operations of the acquired company and cultural or other startup businesses or enterprises or liabilities that were not identified in due diligence.

In addition, in cases where we acquire non-controlling interests in entities, we may not have the capability to effectively monitor or exercise control over the management of the entities in which we invest or the direction that the entity will take. As a result, we may not be able to cause any companies in which we hold our financial and management resources are based on our estimates of our total addressable market in each of our businesses.
Our inability to attract and retain qualified employees and maintain a skilled workforce, or threats to the security of our systems and data, could diminish our ability to operate, grow and achieve innovation and other initiatives effectively.

For our businesses to be successful, we need to attract, develop and retain talented personnel in a number of areas including management, engineering, sales, and other fields and therefore we must be able to identify and attract these attractive opportunities. Even if we can correctly identify potential acquisitions and investments that we believe offer attractive opportunities, we will be unable to pursue the opportunity due to our inability to secure the necessary financing or obtain necessary regulatory approvals or other reasons.

Our expansive global operations expose us to various risks and challenges.

We have operations in a number of countries and regions including Japan, the United States, Europe and Australia, and as we expand our business globally, we are working to further expand our businesses with other potential partners.

In addition, our exposure to the risks discussed above will increase as our global operations continue to expand. Our inability to attract and retain qualified employees may limit our growth, damage our reputation, negatively affect our financial performance, impede our ability to achieve innovation and otherwise harm our business. In particular, talented and experienced IT engineers have become increasingly important in our HR Technology and Media & Solutions segments. Due to our increasing dependence on and the scarcity of such engineers, our success going forward depends in part on our ability to continue to recruit, train, develop and retain such personnel.

Our inability to attract and retain qualified employees to respond to changes in the market for our products and services and evolving technology, or to maintain a positive working environment for our employees and agency workers, may result in the departure of skilled personnel.

We may be subject to liability and regulatory action or suffer reputational damage if we are unable to maintain the privacy of our data or maintain effective internal controls, systems and procedures for the storage, maintenance, usage and protection of personal, confidential or sensitive information.

Due to the nature of our business operations, the large number of individual users who utilize our services and transmit and store personal information through our systems, we possess a substantial amount of personal, confidential and sensitive information with respect to current, past or prospective individual users, enterprise clients, and business partners. The requirements under the Act on Protection of Personal Information of Japan that apply to our handling and use of personal information are stringent, and we are also subject to laws and regulations regarding personal information in the other countries in which we operate, such as California’s Consumer Privacy Act, the General Data Protection Regulation, or the GDPR, in the EU. As a result, we are subject to the risks of failing to provide adequate security for our systems, and there can be no assurance that such attacks will not result in the unauthorized access to our data in the future or that we will be able to successfully protect our data from unauthorized access in the event of any future attacks. In such an event, the number of individual users affected, due to the size of the number of users, could be extremely large, potentially resulting in correspondingly large liability. In addition to the possibility that cyberattacks, information could be leaked or improperly accessed, used or handled as a result of a range of factors including insider threats, our systems could become more vulnerable, including where we implement our security measures, or we may not have access to information from a range of ways, including legal liability stemming from claims from individual users or third parties or other third parties, or government investigations, actions or sanctions. We may also incur additional expenses associated with our information systems, policies and procedures, either voluntarily or in response to administrative guidance or Jones and regulations, perceived wrongdoing or for other reasons.

data with third parties in connection with the Rikunabi DMP Follow service, and adopting Recruit Career to clearly provide reasonable and appropriate information necessary for individual users to decide whether to give clearance regarding the sharing of personal data with certain third parties in the future. In addition, on September 6, the Chief of the Tokyo Labor Bureau found that the operation of the Rikunabi DMP Follow service involved violations of the Employment Security Act and related guidelines. The Chief issued an administrative directive to Recruit Career in relation to all of its job advertising and placement businesses including its Rikunabi services.
In an administrative directive issued to Recruit Career it to ensure that it is in compliance with the Employment Security Act and related guidelines, (i) to promptly take necessary measures including corrective measures and measures to prevent similar occurrences in the future and
(ii) to report the status of such matters by September 20, 2019 to the Chief of the Tokyo Labor Bureau. Currently, the PPC and the Tokyo Labor Bureau are continuing to investigate related matters including the systems for the protection of personal information in our Media & Solutions segment. As a result of this matter and past and potential future investigations or actions taken by regulators, as well as our handling thereof, we could suffer reputational damage, including loss of confidence in our services among individual users, enterprise clients or other third parties, which could result in decreased demand for our Rikunabi services or our other services.
We could also be subject to liability, further regulatory actions, and potential future investigations, which could entail the suspension of certain business operations, whether as a result of the current investigations by Japanese regulatory authorities or other external factors results in a large number of affected individual users. In addition, we could be required to eventually incur additional costs in order to improve our data usage, storage and protection policies and measures, whether in connection with regulatory actions or voluntary enhancements of such policies and measures.
Information technology systems are a critical part of our operations and any cyberattacks, systems failures or other disruptions affecting these systems could have an adverse effect on our business.

- Result in large monetary judgments or a duty to remEDIATE negative experiences for individual users and/or enterprise clients, repair or remediation costs, delays in the release of new products or versions, difficulties in adequately protecting the data of our individual users and/or enterprise clients or legal liability from various issues such as inadequate protection of confidential or personal information or under applicable regulatory regimes. In particular, as many of our online services have significant user bases, any disruptions or malfunctions in our services could potentially affect a significant user population. In addition, in certain of our businesses, we provide our enterprise clients with cloud-based software, email or messaging platforms, key business functions, such as online reservations, point-of-sale, or POS, crash reporting online traffic monitoring, payment services, and connecting with individual users. If there is any defect in the software used to provide these platform services, our enterprise clients may experience disruptions in their business operations or losses or leakage of sensitive or personal data relating to their business or their users, and we expect our exposure to these risks will increase as we expand our SaaS business through Air BusinessTools, which provides a comprehensive suite of tools aimed at enhancing the efficiency and productivity of enterprise clients including SMES in our Media & Solutions segment.

Our businesses are subject to various laws and regulations.

The businesses that we currently operate, as well as those that we may operate in the future, span many countries different international markets and subject to various laws and regulations in the technology sector.

In our Media & Solutions segment, our various services are subject to a number of laws and regulations. For example, we are subject to personal information and data protection laws relating to individual user and customer data stored on our systems. With respect to our payments business, we are subject to a number of laws and regulations related to the processing of payments, as well as anti-money laundering and反洗钱 laws. In addition, our Marketing Solutions operations, which are offered through AirPay, which is a cloud-based payment service, we are also subject to regulations relating to cardholder and consumer protection, as well as anti-money laundering and compliance with the Employment Security Act. Any change in cardholder and consumer behavior in connection with our services, we may be restricted from using such information as planned and as a result of these regulations, our payment business and our other businesses or entering into new regulated businesses could necessitate costly collections, use and analysis of information regarding user personal data relating to their business or their users, and the perception of the reliability of our services and our overall reputation could be negatively impacted.

In addition, our operations are impacted by with individual users and enterprise clients; result in adverse effects to our products and services and their continued availability; problems and failures may be outside of our control. For example, we rely on third-party that we provide can have a detrimental effect on our reputation. Furthermore, the fact that changes to the software used to provide our services may be subject to changes in the future or may cause unexpected problems or failures may be outside of our control. This could lead to time and cost overruns, loss of revenue, higher marketing and infrastructure costs, and could result in lower usage of our services and a lower perception of the reliability of our services.

Our software applications may contain defects.

We provide certain of our services through software applications including mobile and online applications that are highly technical and complex and, in some cases, hardware devices. Our software applications and hardware devices may contain bugs and other defects that interfere with their intended operation or make it difficult to detect or prevent the introduction of the relevant service. Any defects we do not detect and fix may prevent us from providing our services in a responsive and reliable manner and could cause degradation or interruptions of enterprise clients, repair or remediation costs, delays in

the release of new products or versions, difficulties in

Minister of Health, Labour and Welfare and is also subject to the Tokyo District Court, the Typhoon Defense Work, Disputing Undertakings and Protection of Dispatched Workers of Japan Act (No. 88 of 1986, as amended), or the Staffing Labor Act and related laws and regulations. Any business that provides staffing services in Japan but does not comply with applicable laws, rules and regulations, including the Staffing Labor Act, is subject to the risk of being issued a business improvement order, causing us to operate as a staffing business or being directly ordered to cease its operations.

Our Overseas operations in our Staffing segment are concentrated in the United States, Europe and Australia. Laws and regulations regarding temporary staffing in these regions may be implemented on a state-by-state (or, in the case of the European Union, member state-by-member state) basis, as well on a federal, nationwide or region-wide basis. It is also possible that any failure to comply with local laws, rules or regulations in our Overseas operations in our Staffing segment, whether in the United States, Europe, Australia or elsewhere, could result in us losing permission to operate our businesses in the relevant jurisdiction.

In 2018, the Staffing Labor Act was amended to introduce new protections for temporary staff. In addition, regulations that amend the Staffing Labor Act to require less compensation disparity between permanent and temporary workers, which is often referred to as “Equal Pay for Equal Work,” will come into effect in April 2020. The impact of these new regulations is unclear, and we may incur additional costs or other liabilities, which could negatively impact the financial results of our Staffing segment.

As a general matter, future changes in employment-related laws and regulations in Japan and overseas could necessitate costly compliance expenditures and increase the risk that we fail to comply with the applicable requirements.

We may be subject to litigation and arbitration proceedings. Adversely affecting our business, financial condition and results of operations. We believe that the brand identity we have developed has significantly contributed to the success of our business and will continue to be a significant competitive factor going forwards. We depend on our brands and reputation to maintain and expand our user base, which in most businesses comprises mainly general consumers who tend to have a relatively high level of sensitivity to and awareness of brand and reputation. Our brand and reputation could be harmed due to a number of factors, including defects or errors in our services, cyberattacks and other cybersecurity breaches, failure to adequately protect individual client and enterprise client data, inadequate investments to maintain and enhance our business and results of operations, claims against us by our agency workers, clients and adversely affect our reputation and brands. Any business that provides staffing services in Japan but does not comply with applicable laws, rules and regulations, including the Staffing Labor Act, is subject to the risk of being issued a business improvement order, causing us to operate as a staffing business or being directly ordered to cease its operations.

We are also subject to the risk that third parties could instead claim our product names, and we may be subject to claims for trademarks, logos or other intellectual property without permission. Although we believe we have in place robust protections for our intellectual property, there can be no assurance that these measures will be successful in protecting our intellectual property rights and damaging our and our brands’ reputation.

We rely on third-party service providers, such as search engines, platform competitors, payment processing providers, sales agents and Internet service providers in various areas of our business.

We rely on third-party service providers in a number of critical areas of our business. The occurrence of any of the below, including the termination or deterioration of our relationships with such third-party service providers, could materially and adversely affect our competitiveness and our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Certain of our services in our HR Technology and Media & Solutions segments rely on Internet search engines provided by global technology companies primarily for the purposes of ensuring our individual users access to our online platforms. User traffic on our online platforms can be significantly impacted by changes in the search algorithm of the search engine operators or as a result of actions by our competitors that render online search results through our third-party search platform providers less competitive or otherwise harm our business and presence among users. Our HR Technology segment also relies on third-party payment processing networks, regardless of whether such content is true or not, misconduct by our employees or our agency workers, claims against us by our agency workers or employees relating to our employment practices, unpermitted use of our brands by a third party, unfavorable litigation or other factors, regardless of whether such damage was caused by our fault or the fault of others. Furthermore, changes in technology and data in our business has in increasingly important, the use of algorithms such as artificial intelligence in our services and platform updates or otherwise, makes us unable to expand our mobile user base and increase user traffic on our services would be adversely affected.

We also offer mobile applications through the platforms of third-party global technology companies to enhance and improve our ability to attract, maintain or increase the number of users, customers and advertisers, thereby harming our revenues and growth. Furthermore, any limitations from our third-party Internet access providers on the use of third-party cookies could reduce our ability to provide targeted information to our individual users and negatively impact various areas of our business.

Our advertising, sales and marketing efforts may be ineffective, may lead to increased costs and may negatively affect our revenue and margins.

As part of our strategy to expand our business, we engage in advertising, sales and marketing activities in order to increase recognition of new or existing services and expand our individual user and any disruption or interruption to those services would be disruptive to the data center service or deterioration of the network performance of such service, as well as any increase in server usage fees or other additional costs, could materially and adversely affect our competitiveness and our business, financial condition and results of operations.

In addition, in the event that we, or one of our individual users or enterprise clients in any of our businesses, engage in misconduct or inappropriate behavior or acts that are inconsistent with legal requirements or other actions, results of operations, misrepresentation or omissions of material fact, or if we are not able to maintain the accessibility of our services and expand our user base and increase user traffic on our services would be adversely affected.

Furthermore, we rely on third-party data center providers in our data centers and any disruption or any disruption or interruption to those services would be disruptive to the data center service or deterioration of the network performance of such service, as well as any increase in server usage fees or other additional costs, could materially and adversely affect our competitiveness and our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Our corporate responsibility efforts are designed to facilitate privacy and protect personal privacy rights, libel or any other illegal act through our platforms or engage in illegal activity such as spreading false or deceptive advertising, failure to adequately protect individual user and enterprise client data, inadequate investments to maintain and enhance our business and results of operations, claims against us by our agency workers, clients and adversely affect our reputation and brands.
Internet and more generally among potential individual users and enterprise clients. In our flattening segment, we may also rely on advertising to increase registered agency workers, particularly in markets where there are labor shortages. Although we may undertake significant additional advertising, marketing and sales costs in order to increase these registrations, our efforts may not be effective to the extent we expect or at all.

Our business operations are exposed to natural disasters, terrorism, pandemics, calamities or other factors. Despite any preparatory measures we take, our business operations, technology infrastructure, employees and physical assets will remain subject to the risk of fire, earthquakes, tsunamis, typhoons, hurricanes and other natural disasters, blackouts, terrorism, power loss, pandemics and other catastrophic events. Any of these events could disrupt our operations, including failure of our information systems or data servers that have not been backed up, and in such circumstances our ability to successfully implement our business continuity plan will be crucial to our recovery. In the event that we experience a system failure or systems delays, particularly if these failures are widespread within our infrastructure, or are unable to fully implement our business continuity plan, we may be unable to offer certain products and services, and even if they are available, our Internet-based products and services may experience increased load times or other disruptions. In such event, our individual users and enterprise clients may become dissatisfied and reduce their usage of our products and services or switch to those of our competitors. In addition, disruptions to the business operations of any of our individual users and enterprise clients could damage our brand and reputation and lead to reduced revenues for us, errors in the transactions that we are involved in, or other problems.

Any impairment of our non-current assets, including goodwill and intangible assets, or fluctuations in the fair value of these securities as part of other comprehensive income, which has the effect of the impact or favorable results of our operations, may adversely affect our overall financial condition. We may have additional tax liabilities. We are subject to income taxes in Japan and many foreign jurisdictions. Significant judgment is required in determining the provision for income taxes. In the ordinary course of our business, there are many transactions and calculations on which the ultimate tax determination is uncertain. We regularly are audited by tax authorities in different jurisdictions. Although we believe our tax calculations, are reasonable, the final determination of tax audits, and any related litigation in the jurisdictions where we are subject to taxation could be materially different from our historical tax calculations. The results of an audit or litigation could have a material adverse effect on our consolidated financial statements in the period or periods in which that determination is made. We earn a portion of our operating income from outside Japan, and any repatriation of funds currently held in foreign jurisdictions to Japan may result in higher effective tax rates for us. In addition, there is risk that our tax exposure be adversely affected if, for example, tax related laws and regulations, including the interpretation thereof, change due to political or economic conditions in the jurisdiction in which we operate. Further, we are subject to tax examinations by relevant tax authorities on a regular or irregular basis, it is difficult to accurately predict their timing and results.

We may also become subject to new taxes applicable to online businesses, such as taxes on digital services, based on changes in tax laws and regulations of the jurisdictions in which we operate our businesses. Any changes to international tax laws could impact the tax treatment of our foreign earnings and adversely impact our effective tax rate. Further, changes to tax and accounting regulations or additional reporting requirements can increase the complexity, burden and cost of compliance. Due to the large and expanding scale of our international business activities, any changes in taxation of our activities or the combined effect of tax laws in multiple jurisdictions may increase our worldwide effective tax rate, increase the subject of audit and thereby increase our worldwide tax liability, thereby increasing our worldwide effective tax rate. Fluctuations in foreign currencies against the Japanese yen may adversely affect our effective tax rate and may adversely affect the reported amount of our income and earnings. Declines in the value of such currencies could thus have an adverse effect on our financial condition.

Our business operations are exposed to natural disasters, terrorism, pandemics, calamities or other factors. In our flattening segment, we may also rely on advertising to increase registered agency workers, particularly in markets where there are labor shortages. Although we may undertake significant additional advertising, marketing and sales costs in order to increase these registrations, our efforts may not be effective to the extent we expect or at all.
